Allocation of the 2022 Global Development students into teams: Block 2, 2022

Henrik Hansen, November 7, 2022

The Global Development Master's program is focusing on student-based learning. A core part of the study and learning program is working in teams. Each cohort of Global Development students is initially allocated into teams across two classes. The teams are formed before the semester start by the Head of Studies.

The setting

November 7, 2022, there were 49 students enrolled in the MSc. Global Development programme. Based on the information given at that time 10 teams were formed by the head of studies. The allocation of students is random within the following stratification and rules:

In any team there

1. must be at least 1 and at most 2 students with odd CPR numbers.

2. must be at least 1 Dane.

3. can be at most 2 from the same country.

4. can be at most 2 from the same university.

5. can be at most 2 with the same broad type of bachelor background.
    Bachelor background is coded into six main classifications: Anthropology & Sociology (6); Business & Economics (12); Development Studies & Geography & Regional Studies (9); International Relations (11), Political Science (10) Social Science and Public Management (8).

6. Classes in block 2 are the same as in block 1.

7. Team numbers are assigned at random for each team.

The 10 teams are given on the next page.
